Political Gossip Beginning to Buzz

Wise Forecasters Venture Opinions as to Probable Winners in Coming Contest.

Political gossip is heard to a little extent, but it is a little early for persimmons and that is the reason. The trees are good and heathful and the political persimmon will be plucked next year.

Richmond will have another justice of the peace and another constable in the coming campaign. A tall gentleman with a grey mustache, silver hair and experienced, is mentioned for the additional justice. Justice Roth of course, as Judge Latimer will probably be returned.

For county coroner, Dr. C. L. Abbott is favored, though he will exercise no effort. He is making a good official.

M. H. Hurley, county recorder, well qualified and painstaking, who carries a paid up card as a union printer, will succeed himself without oppositiou.

T. D. Johnston, present assemblyman, may enter the race for district attorney, playing cards with the present assistant district attorney A. S. Ormsby. Johnston is legally well qualified. He understands legal procedure.

A. N. Sullenger, present county auditor, was a member of the clerks' union. He is honest and skilled in accounts. All are afraid to run against him except Fred Newsom, who may give him battle.

Randall H. Latimer, as a jurist, has few equals. He holds the office of Judge of the Superior Court of this county, and will doubtless have no opposition.

For the second judge of the Superior Court, A. B McKenzie of Martinez and C. A. Clark of Richmond may cross bats and not a few Richmond people think that Clark will make a home run.

J. H. Wells, county clerk, has made a very superior officer. His work shows organized ability. No official of this county has rendered more faithful service. His work has grown more than double. While things look bright for Mr. Wells there is another who may make a contest.

There are efforts of designing slate makers to sidetrack General R. R. Veale, our painstaking and efficient sheriff. They would have him run for governor. Of course our popular Sheriff Veale feels honored by the "favorable mention" and could have the support of the united press of Contra Costa county for the gubernatorial honors, yet our sheriff will hold what honors he has acquired for governor, and will doubtless "throw his hat into the ring" for another term for sheriff. Let us hope so. P. S. He can run for governor later.

George O. Meese is serving his first term as county assessor and he will be given another term.

Martin Joost is the "most polite" county tax collector who has served in the county capitol and his popularity and public esteem will give him the second term.

J. Rio Baker, that name sounds familiar. He is an old landmark. The sturdy oak and political giant from Antioch. He succeeded the late lamented county treasurer and is in line.

William H. Haulon may not have any opposition for county superintendent of schools He has modernized the county school system

Richmond wants the office of public administrator and Jack Chandler is mentioned in this connection. If Chandler runs he will win. His relatives are popular in the eastern side of this county among bankers, farmers and manufacturers.

Patrick J. Sullivan, who has a large circle of friends in the lodges, who carries a paid up union card in the international union, a young man, is mentioned for state senator to run against Senator J. C. Owens, at the next general election, November 1914, if the Owens controversy reaches a crisis. Mr. Sullivan held the position of assistant attorney general in his native state and is very popular with unions and business men. He resides here now, although he is not working. His candidacy will be made public in due time.

Amendment to Reform Taxation

Exempts Personal Property and All Improvements From Taxation.

The last legislature, by more than a two thirds vote, proposed a constitutional amendment which will permit the city of Stockton or the county of San Joaquin to exempt farming implements, livestock, household furniture, other personal property, and all improvements from taxation. The amendment permits the exemption of practically all classes of property, except the value of land and franchises. The exemptions may be made gradual, as has been done under the same system in British Columbia and other western Canadian provinces and in Vancouver and other Canadian cities, where for a period of years 25 per cent of the value of such property is exempted, until no tax is levied against it.

John W. Willy, chief deputy under Assessor J. W. Moore, who has been a deputy assessor of San Joaquin county for a great many years, says that he recently received a visit from a resident of Canada, who told him that the people of that country find their new system of land value taxation of great benefit to them. Wherever it has been adopted, they would not return to the old California system.

Mr. Willy says that our existing system is unfair to an honest man, who gives the assessor a true statement of his property. The assessor generally accepts the statement of a taxpayer, because it is usually impracticable, if not impossible, to verify all of the statements made to the assessor. Those who do not correctly report what property they may have, lessen the taxes they have to pay; but this action makes others who give honest statements pay more than their share of taxation. It being generally known that a large number of persons escape taxation, the bulk of tax payers now reduce the value given to the assessor to the lowest possible minimum, and many conceal as much of their property from the assessor as possible. As a result, the present system of taxation is a failure. Practically no tax payer gives to the county or city the amount of taxes that would be paid under a just system. Those who have the most elastic consciences may pay less taxes. The state, through the present system of taxation, offers a premium on dishonesty.

Mr. Willy says that his experience has taught him that the present system of taxation is impossible of equitable enforcement. He is in favor of a system that taxes something that is tangible, that cannot escape the view of the assessor, and not of property that can be concealed, or of which it is impossible, except at great expense, to discover the value. He favors exempting all personal property and improvements from taxation and collecting all the revenue for the support of the government, both city and county, from an assessment on land such as is made possible by the Assembly constitutional amendment No 7, which will be voted on in November, 1914 —Stockton Record

Car Hits Truck.

A southbound Sixth street car struck one of the big auto trucks, used for hauling rock, at the corner of 6th street and Bissell avenue on last Friday afternoon.

The front of the car was badly damaged, but no damage was done to the auto and no one was hurt, owing to the quick action of the matorman in applying the brakes.

No Horse Meat.

The stir caused by a German asking for permit to manufacture horse sausage in Richmond, will cause no more comment, as the permit was denied on the grounds that young healthy horses are sold at a prohibitive price to allow any profits, and that it would necessitate the use of aged and diseased animals which would make the sausage an unsanitary product.

BOOSTERETTES.

Richmond grows all the time.

What about the inner harbor at Ellis Landing? When will construction begin here?

The Point Richmond Aerie of Fraternal Order of Eagles will soon erect their new home.

Our boosters should talk and write about Richmond. Write to your eastern friends.

There are no snaps in Richmond property. Land values will double and quadruple present prices.

The Moose will probably build on a site south of Macdonald between Fourth and Ninth streets.

A large dry goods house is looking for a site in the new block at the corner of Fourth and Macdonald.

Many strangers, tourists, are in Richmond this week and express themselves as well pleased with our modern city.

Since the improvement of Chanslor avenue, between Pullman and the Standard Oil refinery, property is steadily advancing.

The Southern Pacific company may have its wagon scales near the proposed site for the freight depot completed by November.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles have in contemplation the entire third floor of the Pillow block for club rooms. There is no more central location in Richmond.

Seventh street will soon be an adequate central location for lodges and stores, and committees are looking between Macdonald and Chanslor on inspection of pretty sites.

The Moose order has not given up its intention to buy and build on Sixth street, opposite the postoffice block. The year of the celebration is only a few months away and the lodges intending to have homes will now get busy very soon.

The Standard Oil Company of California will build a wall 22 feet high along San Pablo bay and fill 2000 acres. This is deep water where factory owners can acquire acreage on sale or lease. Watch North Richmond harbor grow.

A little folder sent out by the publicity committee of the Panama-Pacific Exposition Company does not mention Richmond in proposed side trips. There is a reason for this. World's Fair visitors would find in Richmond a modern prosperous city. Real estate values are not inflated here.

From Fresno a mercantile house is looking for a large general market for produce and provisions. The site of Smith's old stable seems to meet with favor. There is a double frontage between Seventh and Eighth streets, 75 feet on Seventh and 50 feet on Eighth. This property can be secured very reasonable.

Substantial Foundation.

The new business block on Fourth street will have a foundation for a four-story building. Instead of a one-story building, as reported, it is the intention of the owner to build two stories to satisfy the demand for increased space down town. No building is vacant down town between Fourth and Eighth streets and the demand is always active for stores in the center of resident and business population.

To Sell Water.

The plans of the water commission of this city are now to control a large number of pumping stations and to supply the towns along the entire waterfront from this city to Antioch.

The scheme calls for two 30,000,000 gallon water reservoirs, one to be installed as Antioch, and one to be installed in or near this city.

Nothing definite has been done but it is proposed to send committees to the various cities to ascertain just what stand they take in the matter, to see whether it would be feasable to attempt.

P. R. Henry, Burns operative, accused of beating Alfred Nelson, will have his hearing before Justice Hayden in Martinez to day.

Knowles Busy On Portola Parade

Many Beautifully Decorated Autos Will Be Entered in the Big Parade.

Commissioner D. A. Knowles, appointed by the city council to represent Richmond on the Portola commission, has been energetically arranging the small details that will spell success for the Richmond division of the big parade to be held in San Francisco this month

One of the novel schemes will be the word Richmond which will be made up of 10 autos, each carrying a letter 5 feet in height to be displayed so that it can be plainly seen. Each of the other autos will be decorated as to represent the industries of Richmond. The big float of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, which recently appeared in the big Admission Day parade in Oakland will also be entered.

CONDENSED LOCAL.

Miss Wilsey, the new city librarian, is busy getting acquainted with her new work.

Ward McRacken, now managing the store at Lakeport, is visiting his parents at the Point for a few days.

A reception is being planned for this evening in honor of Rev. W. S. Stewart, the new pastor of the Calvary Baptist church.

Miss Ada Pearce is visiting for a short time with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Leverage in San Bernardino, who were formerly residents of this city.

Charlie Powers, formerly a resident of this city and well known here, is now connected with a tobacco store in the Tribune building in Oakland.

Motorman Fred Lutz, who some time ago sustained a fractured ankle in a street car smashup, has had the plaster cast removed and is able to be about.

Miss Ono Jeffry, graduate of the Richmond Polytechnic Business college, received a local position with the Santa Fe company as stenographer.

Robert Burns, general manager of the California Home Building company, is in Auburn this week attending to the settlement of the estate left by his mother.

Mrs A. G. Whitbeck, formerly city librarian of Richmond, is making many trips through the country towns in relation to her duties in her new office of county librarian, recently established in connection with the state library at Sacramento.

Messrs Brown, Swartout and Fitzgerald are interested in a new auto scheme, known as the Richmond Auto Light Shield. The affair is a handy arrangement and will be a great protection from the glare of approaching autos for those who are traveling after dark.

Tuesday Arthur Stensel was arrested and charged with an attempt to commit rape on Susie Roder at her home, 120 22d street, while the mother, Mrs. Anna Roder was away at work. Stensel is a cook and has been out of work for several days. He has the appearance of being mentally unbalanced and is being held in Martinez awaiting trial.

Don't Wait Too Long.

The tunnel and harbor construction must not lag behind, so the Richmond boosters want to see the work progress. Some of the property owners seem greedy for money and are inclined to hold back the improvement that will be of such great benefit to their own property.

If the tunnel and harbor construction is not very far advanced in 1914 some other adjacent city harbor front will get the advantage. Oakland and San Francisco boosters never say anything about the harbor front of Richmond and Albany.

A movement is on foot to organize the sugar refinery workers in Crockett. It is being fathered by the California Federation of Labor.

COUNTY NEWS

The date for the trial of James Davis and James Haynie, two negroes accused of murdering Roscoe Horn, another negro, at a colored picnic at Giant Park on Labor Day, has been set for Tuesday, October 28, for Haynie's and November 5 for Davis' hearing. Both will plead not guilty.

Friday evening the Richmond girl's basket ball team will journey to Martinez to meet the Alhambra girls in what is more than likely to prove an exciteing contest. Both teams are going great, and it will be a battle royal to decide which is the better. An elaborate entertainment is being arranged by the Alhambra school for the entertainment of the visitors from the Richmond schools.

Plans for the rebuilding of San Pablo avenue from Richmond through Stege and Rust to the county line are being formulated by Supervisor Warren H. Mc Bryde and the building of this boulevard will be the first big job he has undertaken since assuming office. The scheme is to seek aid in the work from the city of Richmond, and to this end McBryde appeared before the city council Monday night and presented his plan. The council is considering the matter in a favorable light, and will probably join in carrying forward the work. —Gazette.

Oceans To Unite At Noon Today

Blasting of Big Gamboa Dam at 11 O'clock Will be Heard Over the U. S.

The blasting of the big Gamboa Dam at the Panama Canal this morning at 11 o'clock was ushered in by the blowing of whistles and ringing of bells as the two great waters, The Pacific and The Atlantic oceans, rushed to greet each other in an eternal embrace.

This event will mark an epoch in world events that will forever remain in the archives of history as one of the most important events. The work started years ago by the French is at last completed by Uncle Sam, and it only now remains for the finishing work to done before the great undertaking is completed.

Only a short time now and no more will the straits of Magellan float the queens of the sea, nor can they be seen from Point Terra Del Fuego, our own Panama Canal will be open to them and to a brighter industrial future for the great Pacific coast and the Orient.

The World's series stand 2 to 1 in favor of the Atheletics. Interest is still running at high pitch, fans all over the World await the outcome of todays game.

NO OCEAN WEDDING IN PANAMA CANAL

Belief That There Will Be An Actual Union of Atlantic and Pacific Is Dispelled

Large Lake of Fresh Water Always Between—Goethals Says Ditch Was Not Damaged by Quake

Washington—Widespread prevalence of the idea that there will be an actual union of the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific on the opening of the Panama canal caused the War Department to issue a statement, explaining the fact that sea water on either side of the isthmus will get no farther than the entrances to the great waterway.

"To those who know the engineering features," the statement says, "this idea is rather amusing, as so far as the canal is concerned the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific will never mingle. The Gatun lake, which is midway of the canal, has an elevation of 85 feet above the oceans, and water from this lake will merely flow each way to the two oceans, the water from the lake being fresh and derived from the drainage of the surrounding area."

The statement also explained that the blowing up of the Gamboa on October 10th will not permit the passage of even a rowboat from ocean to ocean, as it will be necessary to complete the removal of the dyke by dredging, and then to dredge out the Cucaracha slide before the canal will be open from end to end.

Official assurance of the complete immunity of the Panama canal from damage by the recent earthquake came to isthmian canal officers here in the following cablegram from Colonel Goethals:

"Earthquake caused no damage to any canal structures, nor did it create or increase any old slides."

Lantz was given six months in jail.

Bumper Rice Crop Being Harvested in Butte County

Oroville—With a bumper crop now being harvested and with rice now bringing 2½ cents per pound and the market advancing, the rice growers of Butte county are jubilant at the prospects. From the first offerings of 1½ cents per pound the market has been steadily advancing. The last jump is said to have been occasioned largely by the disastrous effects of a hurricane upon a large section of the rice districts of the South.

At the government experiment station, lying north of Biggs and between Biggs and Oroville, most extensive experiments are being conducted in rice culture in California. A large part of the 54 acres comprised in the experimental gardens has been set out to the various species of rice. Thus far the experiments go to show that the best variety for California conditions is the waterbune, a Japanese rice.

Ex-Prison Guard Given Life for Killing Wife and Child

Merced—James S. Collins was sentenced by Judge Rector to life imprisonment at San Quentin, where Collins was formerly employed as a guard, for the murder of his wife Margaret E. Collins, on the streets of Merced August 30th last. At that time Collins also killed his six-year-old daughter.

The court found him guilty of first degree murder, but spared his life on the strength of a written statement presented by District Attorney Shaffer saying that there was one mitigating circumstance in the case—the fact that Collins was enraged by the belief that his wife had been unfaithful to him.

After sentence was pronounced Collins made a statement in which he asserted that he did not intend to kill his child, and that he did not know how he happened to do so. Collins shot h wife and child to death with a shotgun.

Rich Americans Living in Europe Must Pay Income Tax

Washington—Uncle Sam's wealthy citizen's who live abroad cannot escape the new income tax by renouncing their citizenship, according to Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax section of the tariff bill. He said:

"I estimate that there are thousands of taxable American citizens in Paris alone from who n we can collect revenue. They may take out citizenship papers in a foreign country, but we can still collect on their incomes from the property they own in America."

Tango Barred at Kansas University

Lawrence, Kas.—The tango and other objectionable dances are prohibited in the University of Kansas by an order issued by the board of administration.

Canine Aristocracy Is Refused Pasteurization

Sacramento—Wholesale applications for the pasteurization of dogs as a preventive measure against rabies, made by owners residing in Burlingame, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pasadena, caused the California State Board of Health to decide that "canine aristocracy" must get its treatment elsewhere.

Since rabies became prevalent in California owners of blue-blooded kennels have been obliged to confine their dogs or suffer a chance of some being bitten by rabid animals. As a result some of the famous pedigreed animals are growing restless without exercise and several owners decided to have their pets pasteurized and allowed to run loose.

The pasteur treatment costs about $75. The serum is manufactured at the state hygienic laboratory and has been used exclusively to treat human beings bitten by rabid animals. Thus far the laboratory has been too busy to furnish the serum to inoculate animals.

Inebriates' Farm Refused by Napa Hospital Directors

Sacramento—The plan of the State Lunacy Commission to remove from the insane hospitals all the inebriates and drug fiends and place them on a state farm in Napa valley, received a setback when members of the Napa Hospital Board of Directors refused to assume responsibility for the farm.

Under the law no new management can be created to operate such a farm. It must be run as a branch of one of the state hospital institutions, an l only the funds appropriated for the support of such institution can be used.

Efforts will be made by the Board of Control to interest the Mendocino hospital directors in the poroject.

The inebriate farm proposed is to be established on 2700 acres of land bought originally by the state for the reformatory for first offenders. The idea of removing inebriates from the regular insane hospitals was though necessary because of the crowded conditions of these instituions, and because it was believed inebriates should not be confined with insane persons

Sought Office for Twenty Years, But Is Not a Citizen

San Rafael—Not until he was on the stand before Judge Edgar Zook, testifying on behalf of F. S. Ambler, who was making application for naturalization, did Michael Doody, formerly chairman of the Democratic Committee, three times candidate for county clerk, once candidate for recorder, and who has run several times for political offices, learn that he himself was not an American citizen.

It has taken Doody just 20 years to discover that unwelcome fact. Perhaps he never would have discovered it had it not been for the questions put by Judge Zook.

Doody's father, who emigrated to the United States from the Emerald Isle, took out his papers all right, but not till after his son Michael had attained his majority. That made it impossible for the latter to claim citizenship through his parent, and as he has never done so on his own account he is an alien still.

Doody's wife is a prominent local suffragette.

Blackhand Dynamiters Get Long Terms in Penitentiary

Los Angeles—Victor Paresko and Joe Principi, alleged Black Hand agents, were sentenced in the Superior Court to serve 20 years in San Quentin.

The men were found guilty of having dynamited the home of G. D. Trapani here last June. Both were injured in the explosion, which wrecked the Trapani house, and were in bed in the county hospital for several weeks before they were well enough to go to court for their trials.

Yreka—On being sentenced to 20 years in San Quentin, following conviction on a charge of attempting to dynamite the home of Leo Girimonteo at Weed, G. Molotto bitterly scored District Attorney Hooper of Siskiyou county and charged that he was being railroaded to prison. G. Vigna, who pleaded guilty to the same offense was sentenced to 15 years.

Mormons Honor Bird That Saved Pioneers From Hunger

Salt Lake—Commemorating the deliverance of early Mormon settlers from starvation, a monument to the great Salt Lake seagull was unveiled in the temple grounds here. A hundred white gulls were released and soared around their bronze counterpart on the shaft's apex. A grasshopper scourge visited the pioneers in 1848, which threatened destruction to crops. Great flocks of gulls appeared and devoured the pests until they vanished.

Lure of Footlights Claims Fence-Buster Ping Bodie

Chicago—Ping Bodie, the California fence buster of the Chicago White Sox, will appear in a short monologue on the stage of a local theater. Bodie will make his debut as an actor, if his plans do not fail, about the time of the Chicago baseball series. Bodie, according to the terms of the contract, will receive $500 for four days' work.

FIVE ABLE YOUNG CATCHERS

Ray Schalk of the White Sox.

Five young catchers of ability have been developed in the American league within the last twelve months, all of them being the regular backstops on their teams at present. Dick Gossett of the New Yorks is probably the best catcher pure and simple in the flock, although Will Schang of the Athletics, Ray Schalk of the White Sox, Sam Agnew of the Browns and Red McKee of Detroit, may hit the ball a trifle harder.

The two American war correspondents were gazing at the conflict when Kinkletop caught sight of a gallant officer leading a charge.

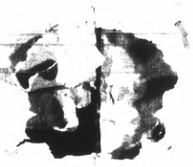

"His face is strangely familiar," he said. "That Greek lieutenant, mean--"

"Yes," said Blithers. "He used to run the boot-blacking stand in that barber shop over on Steenth avenue and Umtp-iph street."

And just then the noble warrior dashed madly past, and, forgetting himself under the excitement of the moment, turned and cried aloud to his advancing troops:

"Next! Shine!"

And the indomitable phalanx moved steadily up the hill, giving the enemy the worst polishing off they had had since war was declared.—Harper's Weekly.

MAKING HAIR GROW

It appears that in all the world there has been discovered one drug—and ONLY one—that actually stimulates to renewed action the follicles and cells that nourish the hair and thereby make it grow—even on bald heads. That drug is a standard article of commerce well known to the drug trade. The National Standard Dispensatory says it acts as a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair. Therefore, even if you have tried a hundred kinds of hair tonic without that drug, you have not proven that a hair tonic containing that drug will not make your hair grow. The best way is to mix your own tonic or have a reliable druggist mix it for you. Here is a formula that includes the drug referred to: Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. You can get these ingredients at any drug store. If you choose you may add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. Apply to the scalp with the fingers night and morning. This formula is recommended for falling hair and dandruff. It should make your hair grow. It is NOT in any sense a dye and contains no coloring matter whatever, but has a tendency to stimulate the pigment-secreting cells and thereby restore prematurely gray hair to its natural color.

AIM TO BE ULTRA ENGLISH

Chinese New Women Create Amusement in Their Efforts to Copy Western Sisters.

"Every Chinese girl," said Miss Clara Lambert, with an indulgent smile, "is trying to be as English as she possibly can. It is the fashion, and infinite pains and trouble are taken to acquire knowledge of the way things are done at home, so that the educated young lady may imitate her western sister."

Miss Lambert has been for over twenty years in China. She is principal of the C. M. S. Girls' Boarding school at Foochow.

"Those girls are charming," she declares. "It is natural for them to be sweet and gentle and courteous, for their traditions all teach them that their minds must be cultivated and developed, while they must submit themselves absolutely to the authority of parents and husbands.

"Twenty years ago, when a Chinese girl was really elegant, she used to swing herself along leaning on a long bamboo pole, for her feet were too small for walking. Now the fashionable ones are as 'western' as they know how to be. They drill with the boys in the government schools and you see the dainty little persons tramping along doing the German goose-step, under the impression that they are quite English. They go off on trips with a crowd of boys, all smoking together, talking and laughing, playing pranks, dressed in curious garments, and fondly believing that they are doing exactly what the nicest girls in England and America consider good style.

"As to ideas of marriage," said Miss Lambert, with an amused look on her face, "things are altogether upside down. Parents or a go-between used to arrange these affairs. The girls have taken the matter into their own hands; they write to ask the boys to marry them. A young man called on the principal of a mission school the other day and made inquiries about one of her pupils. 'Why do you ask these things?' she queried; 'don't you know the girl?' 'No,' he replied, not at all surprised, 'but she has asked me to marry her, and I wanted to know something about her.'"—London Telegraph.

PIPETTE

Pretty Model's Brief Hours of Sunshine Dearly Paid For, as She Had Foreseen.

Marcel Duprez, the artist, was in search of inspiration when chance led him to the Moulin de la Galette.

He was sitting over a glass of bock and watching the dancers through a trellis of painted green woodwork entwined with faded artificial wistaria, when the face of Pipette smiled out at him from the whirling crowd. It was a vivid, haunting smile, one which could not easily be forgotten, and before the night was old it flashed at him over the rim of a wine glass which she held gayly to her scarlet, curving lips.

* * * * * *

One day as they wandered, with arms entwined, among the long avenues of emerald-tinted trees, Pipette made a confession.

"Of course, I don't love him any more. I don't think I ever did love him—really," she faltered in conclusion, a pink blush dyeing the tip of an everted chin. "I thought when he went away that he had gone forever, that he would never come back—and I was glad. I wanted to be free. He was so violent he frightened me. And now he is in Paris again. I saw him this morning on the Pont Neuff. Oh, I am afraid—afraid he will somehow take me away from you. And I love you so, I love you so! Don't let him take me away, Marcel!"

She clung to him hysterically, her fingers tightening upon his arm, tears filling her lashes with quivering liquid srystals.

"Hush, hush, my love," he whispered back soothingly. "No one shall take you from me—that I swear!" And bending his head he tilted her face to kiss the glistening drops from her troubled eyes.

* * * * * *

"The Brink of Folly" was receiving the final touches of the brush by the fading light of a September afternoon.

Suddenly the sound of a step along the passage outside sent Pipette springing to her feet, the soft sunset dreams of the past half hour dropping about her like the folds of a gossamer veil.

"What was that?"

The thumping of a fist upon the wooden panels, accompanied by a demand for entrance in a man's hoarse, drunken voice, broke sharply in upon them.

"It's he—Poul. What shall I do? What can I do?" she pleaded wildly, an agony of fear in her voice, her eyes raised beseechingly to those of her lover.

For one long paralyzing moment they stood facing each other in silence. Then, lifting her bodily in his arms, the man carried her across the room to where the now finished canvas stood propped against the easel.

"Hide, quickly—behind the picture!" he commanded and stepped hurriedly back.

The next instant the frail lock of the door gave way beneath the pressure of a heavy, lurching shoulder, and the tall figure of a man reeled unsteadily into the room.

"I've got you now, my pretty one. You'll not escape me this time—you and your precious lover," he muttered thickly as he stumbled forward over the uneven floor, a sinister gleam flashing from some object which he held clasped in his right hand. Then, catching sight of the painted lifelike portrait of Pipette smiling whimsically across the darkened room, he halted abruptly as though hypnotized.

The next moment he had sprung forward with the snarl of a wild beast and struck savagely at the canvas with the sharp blade of a stiletto.

There was a shrill, terrified shriek as the hidden girl sank wounded to the ground, one little white arm flung out upon the floor beyond the edge of the mutilated picture.

For a while it lay quivering in a pool of pink sunlight, the same little arm that Marcel had so often kissed. Then the fingers curled up like the petals of a rose, and were still.—Chicago American.

Musician's Misfortune.

One of the most notable cases of sudden loss of musical memory related is that of Emile Prudent. One day, in a concert, while playing his own concerto with orchestra, he lost all consciousness of the connection between the notes, and from that time he had music only as confused sounds; neither from his own playing nor from that of the orchestra could he gain a distinct idea, and found that he had completely lost the ability to read the notes. From this attack, however, he soon recovered; the gravest symptoms disappeared the next day, but from that time he could play only from notes.

Successful Phonograph-Clock.

A phonograph-clock has been perfected by Max Marcus, a German, after many years of labor. He is confident that his invention will come into general use. It not only keeps time to the second, but tells the time in a clear baritone voice. "Four o'clock!" and "Four-thirty!" says the clock in loud, distinct, but very pleasantly modulated tones, and the half and full hours may be repeated at will by the pressing of a button. The quarters are not spoken.

TRICK WITH WALKING STICK

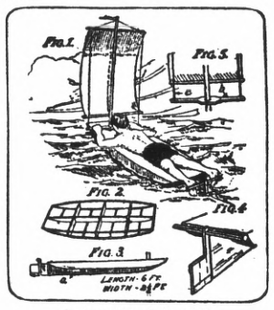

How to Make Cane or Umbrella Stand Up Without Any Apparent Support—Practice Needed.

"The feat of compelling a walking stick or umbrella to stand upright in the middle of a parlor without being supported by anything or anybody always seems wonderful," says Mme. Herrmann. "It is best, when about to perform this feat, to have a black screen for a background, and to order the stick or umbrella to stand alone about a foot in front of this screen. To show the audience that there is no person or apparatus behind this screen to secretly help the stick to stand when commanded the performer can take the screen away for a few minutes until all are satisfied that there is no hidden apparatus there. Pass the cane around among the audience to let them see there is no pin in the cane's ferrule, and that it is an ordinary cane, absolutely without life.' When the screen is again in place the stick can be hypnotized by a few mysterious mumblings, which will be certain to keep the audience guessing in the wrong direction. Then the stick will stand alone for as long as the performer may desire. The secret of the hypnotizing is so simple that the audience will never suspect it; it is to previously tie a yard of black thread from the top of one of the front legs of an ordinary chair to the top of the other front leg, letting the 'bag' of the thread fall to the ground until ready for the 'hypnotizing.' Carelessly place the stick within the 'bag' of the thread, planting the stick upright six inches from the chair, making it appear that it is only by the merest accident that the performer selects this particular spot. Now take your hands away, and, of course, the stick will stand where you place it. The supporting thread will not be seen on account of the dark background. This and many other feats any amateur can perform after a little practice."

UNIQUE SWIMMING SAIL RAFT

Construction of Device So Illustrated That Any Boy May Easily Put One Together.

The clever and unique device pictured herewith may be made by any boy who cares to possess one, says the American Boy. Study the pictures for they will teach you more about the construction than a whole page of text. The making of the body part is shown in Fig. 2. It is like a shallow boat and must be covered with watertight canvas. A soap box, torn apart, will provide material for the rudder as illustrated by Fig. 4. The sail is three feet wide and five feet long. Tack a stick along the top and bottom edges, and by means of these cross-arms lash it to the mast. The mast fits into a square hole and does not turn. The sail turns around it and is operated by the handlebar "b." A keel added to the bottom will give greater buoyancy and at the same time add steadiness to the craft.

INCREASED VALUE OF CANDY

Gain of 55 Per Cent. in United States During Period Population Increased 8 Per Cent.

In five years, according to the census of 1910, there was an increase of $47,709,000 in the value of the candy produced in the United States. This was a gain of 55 per cent during a period in which the population of this country had grown probably not more than 8 per cent.

These figures show the enormous increase in the consumption of candy by Americans. Children will be pleased to learn that eminent medical authorities are now satisfied that pure candies are not injurious to the health if eaten in moderation. It appears that the drawback in permitting the child to eat unlimited candy lies in the absence of fat. "If," says Prof. Robert Hutchinson, "the parent is warned to introduce sufficient quantities of the carbohydrates by insisting upon the use of butter and oils in the diet, the child may generally eat pure candy without detriment and even with distinct advantage.

This is useful information, but parents should still beware of the cheap, adulterated article.

Unequal Punishment.

Two boys who managed to be rather unruly in school so exasperated their teacher that she requested them to remain after hours and write their names 1,000 times. They plunged into the task. Some fifteen minutes later one of them grew uneasy and began watching his companion in disgrace. Suddenly the first one burst out with despair between his sobs and said to the teacher:

"'Tain't fair, mum! His name's Bush and mine's Schluttermeyer."

Verna's Modesty.

Mother entered the room just in time to see four-year-old Verna knock her older brother down.

"Verna, how could you do such a thing!"

"The Lord gave me strength," Verna proudly replied.—Harper's Magazine.

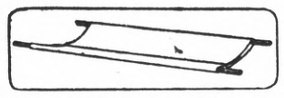

HANDY OUTFIT FOR CAMPERS

Materials Needed Are Piece of Canvas, Blanket and Seventy-Five Feet of Strong Sash Cord.

A piece of canvas, unbleached muslin, a blanket, or any other piece of goods, and 75 feet of strong sash cord are all the materials necessary. No sewing is required and the outfit can be erected in a few minutes. It is light and can be carried anywhere, writes V. W. Killick of Los Angeles, Cal., in Popular Mechanics.

Select two trees, or two poles, and tie the end of the rope to one of these; then run the rope around the other three times, draw it taut and run the end back to the first support and fasten it. Thus two parallel cords at any desired height will be formed between the two supports.

Spread out the cloth on the ground under the two ropes so that the side of the material to form the inner part of the hammock is uppermost. Lift one side of the goods and place the edge over one of the cords far enough to overlap about one-third the entire length of the material. Lift the opposite side and turn its edge over in a like manner and both edges will overlap in the center, as shown in the sketch, which also illustrates the way to make up a stretcher quickly. The weight of the body on the edges causes friction enough to prevent the cloth from slipping.

Two sticks of wood are placed between the parallel ropes at the ends of the cloth to hold them apart as in a hammock. Place a pillow at one end and enter, being careful not to disturb the overlapped edges of the cloth.

After hanging the hammock bed stretch another rope between the supports, about two feet above the parallel lines. A sheet of canvas or waterproof material is thrown over this rope and the hanging edges are weighted or staked to the ground, lines of cord first being attached to the corners. One of the illustrations shows the finished bed and cover.

A Hammock Bed Placed Between Two Supports, and a Covering, Shaped Like a Tent.

TWO NEAT-TONGUE TWISTERS

Typewriter Is One Who Typewrites on Typewriter—Second Refers to Miss Betty Botter.

A reader submits this tongue twister:

"Dear Sir: A typewriter is one who typewrites on the typewriter, and the typewriter is a machine on which the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter typewrites. Now, the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter typewrites on the type writer until there is no more typewriting to be typewritten by the typewriter on the typewriter on which the typewriter who typewrites on the typewriter typewrites."

His second, which refers to a young woman called Betty, is as follows:

"Betty Botter bought some butter, but she said this butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter it will make my batter bitter, but a bit o' better butter would make my batter better; so she bought a bit o' butter better than the bitter butter, and it made her bitter batter better, so 'twas better Betty Botter bought a bit o' better butter."

A Royal Athlete.

King George of Greece is an athlete of much prowess, as becomes the ruler of the land in which the Olympic games originated. Years ago the king used to compete in amateur sports under an assumed name, and once won so many prizes that some of the other competitors suspected him of being a professional from a distance and handled him rather roughly in consequence.

King George's great strength has often been put to practical use. Once in a quiet street he came upon a drunken workman cruelly beating a little lad. Instead of having the man arrested the king soundly trounced the bully and sent the boy away rejoicing.

Abating a Nuisance.

To make sure the youngster was not disobeying the bass-fishing law, the game warden took his string of fish out of the water and found only catfish, perch and suckers on the line. A few feet farther down the stream he found a large black bass wriggling on a string weighed down with a stone, and asked the boy what he was doing with the fish.

"Well, you see," answered the boy, "he's been taking my bait all morning and so I just tied him up there until I got through fishing."—National Food Magazine.

No Question About It.

A child adopted from an orphans' home was being ridiculed by the other children because he had no parents. The conversation went about as follows:

"Aw, you haven't got any real mother and father."

"Maybe I haven't, but the ones I have got love me as much as yours do you."

"They do not. Ours are our real parents."

"Well, mine love me more than yours do 'cause mine picked me out of a hundred other babies and yours had to take what they got," replied the adopted son.—Life.

COMFORT IN KITCHEN

MODERN INNOVATIONS DO AWAY WITH MUCH LABOR.

Time-Saving Appliances Have Been Introduced and Become General—Fireless Cook Stove Proves Genuine Boon.

Nowadays the men who make things have turned their attention to providing the home, and especially the kitchen, with as efficient labor and time saving appliances and tools as an up-to-date factory can boast. The modern kitchen can be a thing of beauty and a joy even to the woman who works in it, so great have been the improvements made.

Take, for instance, the evolution of the fireless cook stove, a miracle working contrivance which banishes heat, steam, smells and standing over the stove watching the slow, tedious cooking process.

Lined with seamless aluminum, rustproof, tarnish proof and durable utensils to use with it, and a cunningly contrived steam valve attachment which allows the roasting of meats and fowls, the baking of bread and pies, as well as boiling and stewing, it is indeed a wonderful convenience.

All that is necessary is to heat the soapstone radiators either on a gas or electric stove. Then the food, meats, vegetables, or whatever is to be cooked—cooks just as it is, and it is forgotten until the clock says it should be done.

It probably isn't known that every branch and variety of the cooking art can be successfully employed with the fireless cook stove.

The earlier models of these cookers showed a very cumbersome box that took up a lot of space in a small kitchen, but they have now been reduced to occupy waste space, and some of the later designs show them swinging on hinges under the kitchen table, where they may be pushed out of sight and out of the way while the rest of the meal is being prepared.

Another innovation for kitchen efficiency is a porcelain table with rounded corners and edges, which is seamless, unbreakable and unchippable, and at once becomes a molding board for pie baking or a meat board or bread board for cooking and slicing.

This is far superior to the old wooden table tops which became the "catch-all" for grease and other substances, owing to the surface being scored from knife blades while preparing meals.

The best thing of all about a kitchen table of this kind is that it can be kept spotlessly clean—really hygienically clean—by wiping off with a hot wet cloth.

Apricot-Apple Pie.

Line your pie plate as usual with nice crust, put in a scant layer of halved apricots (canned), then fill the pie with sliced apple and finish as usual and bake. The mingled flavor of the two fruits is very nice and appetizing.

Constipation causes and seriously aggravates many diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pellets Tiny sugar-coated granules.—Advt.

Would Be More Important.

A scientist declares that the speed mania has converted a great many automobilists into nervous wrecks. We would like to have him diagnose the case of the man who has to dodge them.—[illegible]

Squash Pie Without Eggs.

Use dry squash (the hubbard or others of same quality). Cut in suitable pieces and cook in a steamer only just long enough to soften so it can be pressed through a sieve. Too long cooking will make it watery and spoil it for a pie. Now heat milk to the boiling point only and turn immediately on the strained squash—using just enough to make a thick mixture—much thicker than when eggs are used. Add salt and sugar to taste; flavor with ginger or pure extract of lemon is good for a change. In deep plates this pie will take an hour for baking. Remove from oven when it ceases to bubble in center. Oven should be quite hot.

Stock Pot Handy.

The stock pot is the mainspring of a well-managed kitchen. In it should be collected bones, poultry, carcasses, trimmings and vegetables, for any scrap is welcome. A piece of shin beef may sometimes be added for extra strength. There will be no lack of soup, gravy and sauces if this is kept constantly going; it is the foundation for them all.

Why He Hesitated.

"Why didn't you go to the assistance of the defendant in the fight!" asked the judge of a policeman. "Shure," was the answer, "an' Oi didn't know which av them was goin' to be th' defendant, yer honor."

Tackle Catarrh Now
Be Free All Winter

Avoid Colds, Stall Pneumonia, Keep Your Nose Clear and Your Throat Free.

Don't Wait Till You're All Bunged Up. Use S. S. S. Now.

If you will go into any first class store and get a bottle of S. S. S. you are on the way to getting rid of Catarrh. But don't let anyone work off that old trick of something "Just as good."

S. S. S. is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, comes through all the veins and arteries, enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

The medicinal components of S. S. S. are relatively just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritive properties of the grains, meats, sugars, and fats of foods. Any local irritating influence in the blood is rejected by the tissue cells and eliminated by reason of the stimulating influence of S. S. S.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write to The Swift Specific Co., 202 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not trifle with substitutes, imitations or any of the horde of "Just as good" Counterfeits of S. S. S.

Richmond's Industries — Number of Men Employed.

In answer to numerous inquiries as to the number of manufactories and the number of men employed, The Terminal herewith publishes a list for the benefit of its readers and those who may be interested in Richmond's development. Richmond has 34 manufactories, 8 of which employ (March 1, 1913) 4365 men, classified as follows:

	No. of Men Employed
Standard Oil Co.	2400
Pullman Shops	750
Santa Fe Shops	600
Western Pipe Works	175
California Wine Association	165
San Francisco Quarries	100
Pacific Porcelain Works	100
Pacific Sanitary Mfg. Co.	75
Total	4365

Besides the above there are 26 smaller manufacturing industries in Richmond such as brick works, cap and match factories, etc., employing 850 men and women. These figures are conservative and not given for advertising purposes. They are taken from statistics gathered by the Western States Gas & Electric Co., by request of their main headquarters at Chicago.

The assessed valuation of Richmond property is $12,333,352.10. Bonded indebtedness, $300,000, for harbor improvements. Number of building permits for 1912 were 902, value $800,000.

And the good that we can do."

Right now is clean up time, before the winter rains set in.

The community drinking cup and the always dirty towel are fast disappearing.

Property values are effected by neighborhood cleanliness. Filth and rubbish depreciates values.

The recent great floods in Texas have destroyed millions of dollars worth of property, with a heavy toll of human life. Who said 1913 was lucky?

President Wilson has ordered the unsanitary "roller towel" abolished from all Federal buildings in the United States and individual "wipes" will be substituted.

The humane officers stopped the "bulldogging" of steers at rodeo in Emeryville "Bulldogging" looks to us to be about as much real "sport" as a Mexican bull fight.

Representative Mann has just discovered that some of the problems given in the entrance examinations at Annapolis are impossible of solution. This need not deter the ambitious amateur.

Government investigation of vitrified brick as a paving material for country roads concludes that notwithstanding the first high cost, that four distinct advantages are obtained, towit: Durability, easy traction, ease of maintenance and good appearance.

Powerful machinery, the development of which was considered wonderful inventions at the end of the last century, are on exhibition at the Mechanics' Fair in San Francisco. Among these exhibits are pumps and other devices by which modern science has conquered the soil, reclaimed and irrigated it and given to California thousands of new, fertile acres.

The site of the city hall at Harbor Center appears to give general satisfaction. Why not use a site and build on it and save rent, when there is such a central location available? This block, when the city builds on it, with its modern parkings and appointments will be worth $500,000. The great Fair is only a few months off, and Richmond should have civic center by that time.

The disclosures of the Census Bureau show that although three and a half years have elapsed since the enumeration, much of the work remains uncompleted, and many of the reports have never been made. Thus several million dollars worth of census work has relapsed into junk. Worse still, clerks are kept on old work thereby holding back annual reports that are useless unless made on time.

The Standard Oil company usually "lays off" the new men first, when the force is cut down. Priority governs. The same rule may be applied in the reduction of the number of saloons. If the newer saloons are the first to go they should be permitted to serve out their license period first, and the city may reimburse them simply for the premium paid without hardship, but a strict account should be kept in every instance.

England, France and Germany suffer no such disastrous panics as afflict the United States. There is a reason. Perhaps the adjustment of the currency system will remedy this. Prof. Mitchell as Professor of Finance of the University of California, in his book "Business Cycles," asks "Is the control of credit tending toward monopoly?" From present indications, this should not be a difficult question to answer.

The Terminal is not a venture. It is the old established newspaper of Richmond, here to stay. Like the birds of passage, "they may come and go," but The Terminal will always be found doing business at the old stand.

THE WHISTLE REMINDS US.

Despite the marvelous progress of organization among laboring men, there is still a great body of laborers outside the unions. Many of these men and women belong to arts, crafts, professions and callings of a nature that makes organization difficult.

But labor in general has profited immeasurably by what the labor unions have accomplished.

Hours of labor have been reduced, wages advanced, the right of collective bargaining established and an impetus given to legislation to protect the laboring classes.

The non union man is a beneficiary of organized labor, although he often places himself in a position of antagonism to it; and, unfortunately, often wastes more time fighting non organized labor than in fighting organized capitalism.

But—

Whenever you hear the "7 o'clock whistle" blow, remember that men a few years ago had to be on the ground at that hour ready for work and not until the "6 o'clock whistle" blew did they lay down they their tools. Remember that there was a time not long ago when a man applied for work, instead of his labor having a fixed and recognized value he timidly asked the employer "What do you pay?" And the employer fixed the hours of his "hired help."

We must hark back to conditions as they were a few years ago in order to appreciate the progress that has been made by Labor.

Labor makes mistakes, many of them. It is sometimes arbitrary, intolerant and inconsiderate. But organized labor had to start from the premise of centuries of injustice to labor. Much may be forgiven laboring men if in their struggle upward they sometimes overreach the rules of fair play.

The labor question will solve itself, and the solution is going to come sooner than men think. The most far-reaching victories will come through legislation. That legislation will establish justice and equity between Labor and Capital, protecting each from the selfishness of the other and guaranteeing to each its rightful share of mutual production.

As legislation take hold of the great industrial and economic questions, the struggle between unions and employers will become less severe. Their differences will cease to be personal matters, and will be settled on a basis of justice to them and the general public. Feudalistic contest will give way to state control of both labor and capital. And in securing equal recognition with capital before the law, Labor will have won its greatest victory.

The Master and the Servant theory of the old common law, will have been replaced by the newer theory of Employer and Producer. —Stockton Record.

A Fish With a Lantern.

No matter what animals or groups of animals are studied, it will always be found that their leading physical traits are exactly adapted to their habits and conditions. A striking illustration of this fact is afforded by the torch fish. This is a deep sea fish that carries on its nose something like a short, thin bone, which it can illuminate with a phosphorescent light or extinguish at pleasure. It does not use this lantern to guide it on its way in the depths of the ocean or to enable it to see what is going on in the neighborhood. The light is put to a more practical use. When the fish feels hungry it lights up to attract smaller fish. They dart for the light and find themselves in the capacious mouth of the fish. How the lantern is lighted and extinguished is not yet clearly understood.

Fortune Telling.

Fortune telling is almost as old as the human race. We have no knowledge of the time when or place where it originated. We only know that the practice was in vogue as far back as we can go. Some claim that it had its beginning with the Chaldean astrologers, who claimed that they were able to foretell the future by aid of the planets. The oldest of the nations were familiar with the practice, and by the gypsies it has been carried all over the world. It is perfectly natural for man to want to know about tomorrow and next year, and it required but little effort on his part to listen to fortune tellers. To this day the business is carried on with profit by the gypsies and others who impose upon the credulity of the superstitious.—New York American.

A Roadless Land.

Russia is almost a roadless land. It is inconceivable to the foreign visitor who has ever left the beaten track of the railways in Russia how a great empire can have subsisted so long and so successfully without even a pretense at roads. The secret lies in the fact that for five or six months in the year nature herself provides roads over the greater part of Russia—admirable smooth, glassy roadways over hard worn snow. The traffic is further cheapened over these roads by the substitution of a sledge runner for the wheel and axle. This brings the cost of land carriage as near the cheapness of water borne freight as possible, and it is the principal reason why Russia in the twentieth century is still a roadless land.

Original Confidence Man.

A story is told of old New York and of how the expression "confidence man" meant a man in whom one could not place confidence at all. It is said that some years ago a very well dressed man, with a courteous address, was want to walk up and down the principal streets of the city. Whenever he met a stranger who looked hopeful to him he would approach the man, and with the most delightfully frank manner he would ask:

"My dear sir, have you confidence enough in me, an entire stranger to you, to lend me $5 for an hour or two?"

And it is said that the man made an extremely good living by this very simple means.—New York Sun.

What Saved Him.

TO ADVERTISERS.

There are employed in Richmond 3000 organized workers. This newspaper was the only organ in Richmond that supported union labor in its fight against the open shop on Tuesday, August 19. The Terminal in consequence will continue to prosper and grow, for the workingman is a consumer as well as a producer and distributor of his earnings. He naturally will patronize the paper that stands by him in his struggle for better conditions. The Terminal is the workingman's friend, and its advertisers will surely reap the benefits of publicity placed in its columns. The Terminal is the oldest newspaper in Richmond, was the first to carry the allied printing trades label at its masthead. Merchants need no instructions in placing their publicity where it will be most effective.
